My name is Felix Ozuna I possess a diverse skill set and a strong aptitude for communication and technology, I believe I can bring a valuable perspective to your organization. Throughout my professional journey, I have demonstrated exceptional communication skills, allowing me to engage with individuals at the highest levels of business. Whether it's presenting ideas, negotiating contracts, or building relationships, I excel in effectively conveying messages and building strong connections. While I may not have prior job experience as a developer, I have invested significant time and effort in mastering the MERN stack, which includes MongoDB, Express, React, Node and Docker. Additionally, I possess proficiency in other technologies such as NEXT JS, Typescript, DART, Flutter, React Native, GraphQL, SQL, HTML, CSS, and Responsive Design. My GitHub account showcases a range of real-time applications that highlight my skills and qualifications. I embrace challenges and possess a natural curiosity to understand and dominate any computer or electronic business network you provide. I am confident in my ability to quickly adapt and contribute to your organization's technology initiatives. Moreover, my diverse skill set enables me to offer unique perspectives and innovative solutions to complex problems. I am always eager to assist and lend a helping hand, so please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or require any assistance. I am committed to contributing my expertise to the success of your team and am open to learning and growing alongside the organization.
